Propose Widening 94 to 4-Lanes Through Lemon Grove

Broadway is a Major Link to Imperial Valley

More than 9,000 automobiles pass through Lemon Grove every day on Broadway, according to a traffic count made by the highway department.

Willis N. Miller, director of planning, has made a recommendation to the San Diego County Planning Commission, and the commission has recommended its approval by the Board of Supervisors, with the suggestion that the board in turn forward it to the State Highway Commission.

Following is the "Master Plan" for Highway 94, familiarly known as Federal Boulevard, Broadway, Imperial Avenue and Campo Road:

1. State Highway 94 east from 32nd Street in San Diego (locally known as "F" Street, Federal Boulevard, Broadway, Imperial Avenue, and Campo Road) is the most important east-west highway serving the central portion of the San Diego Metropolitan Area.

2. Because of this fact, that highway is recommended as a "main road" ultimately to be developed as a 4-lane, divided highway in the County Planning Department's preliminary draft "Master Plan of Major Highways." Attainment of this ultimate development will take time, for it requires acquisition of additional right of way, realignment to eliminate several sharp curves, and a large expenditure for new construction and improvement.

3. Meanwhile, large and rapidly increasing volumes of traffic are using the inadequate, 2-lane present road. 1950 week-day traffic counts on this section of State Highway 94 are as follows:

At 32nd Street	15,660
At Massachusetts Ave.	9,173
West of Palm Ave.	9,980
East of Palm Ave.	6,368
West of Jamul	769

West of 32nd Street, several routes are available to carry traffic to and from the business and industrial areas of San Diego.

Latest Creations at Style Show

One of the most charming affairs of the Spring season was the luncheon and style show given last Thursday by the Parents Guild of St. John of the Cross.

Covers were laid for 200 at tables attractively decorated with Spring blossoms, in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Charles Miller, a devout worker in the church and dearly beloved by all, was happily surprised when it was made known that she had been chosen honored mother of the day. A grandson, Robert Miller gave the surprise away when he appeared in a bell boy costume and called for his grandmother to come forward. Mrs. Mel Eastwood of Hollywood, Mrs. Miller's only daughter, surprised her mother by presenting an orchid corsage and paying special tribute to her mother on "her day."

Mrs. Peter Shea, soloist, gave the history of Mother Machree, and dedicated the song to Mrs. Miller.

In keeping with the special theme of the day, the fashion show revolved around the honorary Mother, Mrs. David Hentigan, commentator, held the interest of the audience when she described in her charming manner the costumes worn by the following models—Susan Almgren, Trudy Boltz, Ann Franzel, Joan Kozicki, Paul Vandenburg, Cynthia Sharp, Margaret Everett, and Stephen Koerner, modelled costumes from the Petite Shop.

Dorman Popular Choice for School Board Trustee

People in this community are well aware of the fact that the job of the school trustee is a non-paying job that calls for a great amount of public service and a wide knowledge of school problems that can only be acquired through experience.

One of the great mysteries of our civic life is why parents are willing to leave the selection of a school board, which directs the education program of their children, to be determined by a handful of people. In recent years a total of 17 votes has been sufficient to elect a board member in the Lemon Grove School District.

The voters of the Lemon Grove School District have chosen to provide more funds for the building program and to insure continued efficiency in both the administration and teaching staffs, therefore it behooves these voters to go to the polls on Friday and cast their votes for the best qualified man to serve them on the school board. The smoothness and efficiency of the operations of the present board cannot be underestimated. The incumbent, attorney Vroman J. Dorman, has the quaalifications necessary to be able to give the school value of legal council, which is very important in making up contracts, in legal interpretation of school law, and in legal transactions for the school. Since he has three children in school, is a property owner and tax payer in Lemon Grove, he is cognizant of the problems which must be considered with clear-thinking and foresight, so that the children of Lemon Grove may be afforded the greatest possible advantages for educational and citizenship training that can be provided within the means of the district.

The responsibility of providing a Board of Trustees who can operate with open-minded, progressive effectiveness rests with the voters alone, and the importance of exercising this right must be realized by them. In the past, the turnout for school board elections has been disappointingly small, which would seem to indicate a lack of interest. However, there never seems to be a lack of back-fence critics when vital issues present themselves to the board, and are decided upon by them. It is far better that we should know the qualifications of our candidates, then choose the one best fitted, than to fail to elect the better man because of lack of interest.

Your vote for Dorman is an indication of your interest in schools.

Set May 23 as Target Day for Saving Water

Residents of San Diego County have been asked to set sights on May 23 as Target Day for saving water. On that day, according to M. J. Shelton, chairman of the Save Our Water committee, people throughout the county are asked to reduce their use of water by one-third.

Where a water district's consumption can be measured daily, readings will be taken before and after Target Day to determine how successful each community in the county was in hitting its target, Shelton said.

"The object of Target Day is not to save water on that day only," Shelton emphasized, "but rather to drive home the possible ways water can be saved every day during San Diego County's water shortage. All forces of public information will be pointed on the May 23 target for that purpose."

A save Our Water meeting has been called for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, (Friday) in the San Diego Chamber of Commerce auditorium for a progress report and furthering organizational plans. Representatives from all community and agricultural districts of the county are invited.

"Starting with an idea a month ago," Shelton said, "an organization has been built to carry the facts on the need for water conservation to every corner of the county. A report will be given on what has taken place in that direction and steps will be taken at the meeting to further organize the Save our Water campaign, especially at the local level of each of the several county communities."

Each community is expected to set its objectives according to its own situation, the Save Our Water committee chairman said, and to work out its water conservation program at the local level. Information of the need for water saving and methods for doing so are being sent out from Save Our Water headquarters, 314 Land Title Building, San Diego.

Use water as though it costs $5 a gallon was the urgent plea made by Shelton.

"Everyone has to cooperate if we are to reach the water saving target, which is for each person in the county to use approximately one-third less water than he did a year ago," Shelton declared.

"The Save Our Water campaign is really taking hold," the committee chairman said, "but we continue to get reports that there are many people who still do not take the effort seriously. That is a mistake, careful water use now will avoid serious hardships later."

OPS Orders New Beef Price Control Plan Calling for 10 Cent Rollback

BEEF PRICE CONTROLS—In one sweeping order that will touch nearly every family in the home towns of America as well as 300,000 meat retailers and 25,000 packers, slaughterers and other meat wholesalers, the OPS put into force a new beef price control program calling for almost a dime-a-pound roll-back at the butcher shop by October 1.

The order is expected to save the American housewife $700 million in the butcher shops. Housewives cannot expect retail prices of beef to drop immediately, however, because the program provides for progressively reducing ceiling over a period of time that will allow livestock producers to unload their high cost animals.

Livestock men have balked at controls over cattle prices and warned they would result in less meat production. Michael V. DiSalle, OPS director, will likely be severely criticized by the industry.

These are the steps in the new beef program:

1. A 10 per cent cut in prices which slaughterers may pay the farmer for cattle. This goes into effect for accounting periods beginning on or after May 20.

2. Dollar and cents ceilings are fixed for wholesaler and retailers for the first time. The wholesaler ceilings go into effect May 9, the retail ceilings on May 14. Butcher shops must post retail ceiling price charts, by grade and cut, by June 4.

3. Prices slaughterers may pay for cattle are to be reduced an additional four and one-half per cent on August 1 and by same amount on October 1.

4. On the same August 1 and October 1 dates, retail beef prices cuts of from four to five cents a pound will go into effect.

Editors Meet

MORE CONTROLS—Main Street may feel a greater degree of the control pinch if President Truman's proposed legislation gets through congress. He has called for re-enactment, with some stiffening, of virtually everything in the defense production act of 1950. In view of Mr. Truman's recent troubles, it is doubtful if his suggestions will be accepted without considerable criticism.

He proposed:

1. Fixing the parity price for each farm commodity as of the beginning of its marketing season for price control to cover the entire season.

2. Establishing effective rent controls for both residential and commercial properties "wherever needed to stabilize the cost of living and the cost of doing business."

3. Strengthening machinery for the enforcement of price control regulations.

4. Authorizing the government "to build and operate defense plants, to produce essential materials and equipment.

5. Providing for controls over credit in the sale of existing housing.

6. Regulating speculative trading on commodity exchanges.

THINGS TO COME—If the man on Main Street thinks the Truman-MacArthur controversy is going to die, he is badly mistaken. The battle is just about to begin.

This was indicated in a long and extemporaneous speech by Sen. Robert Taft in which he attacked the U.S. joint chiefs of staff and demanded that the U.S. go "all-out" in Korea.

The senator said that he was willing to follow the MacArthur proposals for bombing military objectives in Communist China and for giving logistical support, meaning transport and cover, to Nationalist attack on China proper.

The senator's speech made it clear that the Republican plan to use the forthcoming investigations of the MacArthur dismissal to force an overturning of present far east policy.

A WARNING TO AMERICA—Robert A. Vogeler, shaky, pale and nervous was released from a Hungarian prison after 17 months imprisonment. He had a message for the Main Street of America.

"I want to warn every individual American that what happened to me can happen to them if we don't band together to destroy these enemies of individual freedom," he told newsmen after his release.

"I have a message for America—an important one.

"America must be made aware of what can happen to human rights —right of a person to go where he wants and say what he wants . . . or the right to be able to go to bed and not be afraid of being taken away from his family to prison in the middle of the night."

RETURN OF LABOR—With the return of organized labor to all defense-mobilization agencies, the man on Main Street can expect the unions to exert a greater influence over the administration's future defense proposals.

It was evident by labor's return to the defense agencies that the administration had surrendered on many points of conflict and is now willing to listen to the united labor policy committee.

Union leaders made known immediately their first campaign. As one expressed it, "We will now turn the heat on congress by undertaking a new campaign for tighter price-control laws and other legislation to insure equality of sacrifice in the defense effort.

Chinese Attack South of Parallel

A U.S. tank battalion lumbers into a defense position north of Seoul, prepared to take a heavy toll of advancing Chinese Communist forces.

SPRING IN KOREA—It is spring in Korea. But there is no peace and tranquility in the warm sun. The song birds can not be heard for the constant roar of artillery. The tender sprigs of grass and shrubs are trampled beneath the boots of invading Chinese and defending United Nations troops. It is time for war in Korea.

But the great Communist spring offensive is not doing so well. And the people in the home towns of America who are thinking of their sons and brothers and husbands have gained confidence from reports of allied victories.

The Reds approached Seoul, but came to a dead stop after allied naval, air and artillery bombardments. On other fronts the fighting had died down for the time being.

But as long as it is spring in Korea, the Communists will attack. This time, however, they are running into a meat grinder of fire power.

A SLIGHT DECLINE

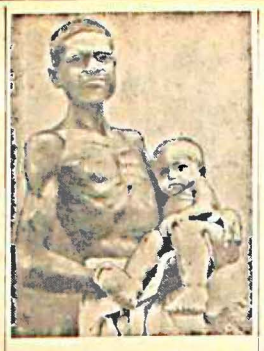
Food Prices Down .3 of a Per Cent

The bureau of labor statistics reported that a survey of eight cities revealed that retail food prices declined slightly during the latter part of March.

It was the second time since the wage-price freeze of January 25 that there was a falling off in the retail food-price index kept by the bureau. The decline, however, was only 3 of a per cent.

At the first of April the index was about 11 per cent above that of last June, before the Korean fighting began, and 14 per cent above a year ago.

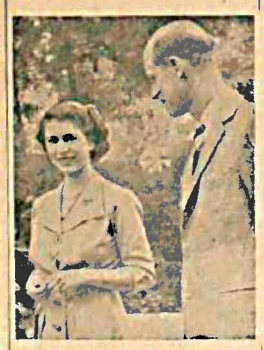
The decline was due largely to a small drop in prices of fresh fruit and vegetables. Cabbage led the decline with a 19 per cent drop. Carrots were down 18 per cent and fresh tomatoes down 11.



STARVATION . . . Victims of India's grain famine are this father and child. The infant's limbs are terribly swollen from undernourishment. The father is half blind from same cause. Millions of Indians face starvation this summer.

WHO? . . . Soft-voiced callers have phoned Mrs. Ernestine McRoberts, Huntington Park, Calif., saying her husband, a master sergeant, is a Red prisoner and well-treated, and she should sign petition to end U.S. "aggression" in Korea.

FORMOSA ADVISOR . . . Maj. Gen. William Chase is chief of staff of a military advisory group in Formosa to administer American aid in accordance with administration policy of building up the island's stronghold against aggression.



ROYAL BIRTHDAY . . . Princess Elizabeth, heir apparent to throne of England, celebrates her 25th birthday at the English embassy in Rome with her husband, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh. She was received in audience by Pope Pius.

FASHION FLASH . . . Paris has introduced the habit of wearing jewelry directly on the skin, fastened there with a dab of magic liquid. Hearts for ears, throat and shoulders accent that bare look. These are ruby-studded hearts.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

BY...DREW PEARSON

Wake Island Report

A HIGHLIGHT of the current Truman-MacArthur controversy is the New York Times story summarizing the conversations between the two men at Wake Island.

Because the New York Times story had the earmarks of being leaked out by the White House, some MacArthur proponents have challenged it, while MacArthur states that no records were made of the conversations on Wake Island.

In view of this controversy, the Washington Merry-Go-Round's account of the Wake Island conference, published on Jan. 23, some months prior to the Times' April 21 account, may be significant. For the President can hardly be accused of any partiality toward this writer except in his choice of cuss words.

Writing at that time — three months before the Truman-MacArthur controversy — I reported that:

1. MacArthur was so sure of victory he promised General Bradley that he would transfer one full division to Europe.

2. MacArthur assured the President the Chinese would not intervene.

3. MacArthur expected to get his troops back to the United States by Christmas.

4. Because of the certainty of victory, much of the conference was devoted to plans for reconstructing Korea.

5. Highlight of the Wake Island meeting was the brilliant conversation of one man, MacArthur completely dominated the conversation.

What They Said

Because the Wake Island conference now appears to be playing such an important part in the Truman-MacArthur controversy, the salient portions of my Jan. 23 Wake Island column follow:

The President of the United States flew halfway around the world to confer with General MacArthur, yet aside from a few conversational pleasantries, nothing has been published regarding what happened.

The direct talks between MacArthur and President Truman took place with no one else present; no stenographic notes were taken. It is next to impossible, therefore, to report accurately what happened. Furthermore, the stenographic notes made of the more extended conversation between Truman, MacArthur, General Bradley, and the other military men are still so secret that each copy is numbered.

Home by Christmas

MacArthur assured Truman that he could "finish the job in North Korea" in a short time. According to the stenographic notes he said:

"I hope to be able to have the 8th army back in Japan by Christmas. I may be able to send a convoy into Pyongyang immediately."

At this point, President Truman asked: "What about Chinese intervention?"

MacArthur's reply was: "They could have intervened earlier when it would have been decisive, but that time has passed. We are no longer fearful of their intervention. Although there are several hundred thousand along the Yalu river, it is not likely that they could cause us much trouble."

MacArthur's advice on the future of Korea was: "We should turn Korea over to the Koreans as quickly as we can and get out as quickly as we can.

Troops to Europe

At one point, Gen. Omar Bradley asked whether MacArthur could make any troops available for Europe in the next two months.

MacArthur replied: "Yes, I think a division can be made available early in 1951."

Bradley also remarked that he hoped MacArthur wouldn't have the same trouble he had with American pilots in Europe shooting up railroad bridges that were needed later for rehabilitation.

"I have the same trouble," MacArthur replied. The stenographic notes show laughter at this point.

Only other laughter came when John Muccio, U.S. ambassador to Korea, proposed using sound trucks for propaganda purposes to sell democracy to the Korean people.

MacArthur Merry-Go-Round

The Foreign Minister and Vice-President of Peru, who have been honored guests in this country, didn't mind being ousted from their Waldorf-Astoria hotel suite to make room for General MacArthur. But they did feel hurt at the lack of confidence implied by the fact that the locks on the doors were changed immediately after they departed . . . MacArthur was able to recognize at least one Democrat among the Republicans—Sen. Tom Connally of Texas.

Bismarck Fray Is Described

INDIRECTLY, Herman Goering was responsible for the destruction of the German battleship Bismarck, it has been revealed.

Rear Admiral D. V. Gallery, U.S.N., recently cited the reluctance—or refusal—of the Luftwaffe to come to the aid of the German battleship as one of the factors that led to her sinking by the British on May 21, 1941.

At the same time, Admiral Gallery, who interrogated survivors of the ill-fated dreadnaught, points out that the entire battle was virtually a comedy of errors on both sides, with luck and British miscues favoring the Nazis. The latter pulled several boners themselves, Gallery states.

"The Nazis committed a fatal blunder at the beginning. Concern with the fuel supplies completely dominated the plans of the admirals on both sides. Nevertheless, the Bismarck sailed from Norway 2,000 tons short of her full capacity of fuel!"

A serio-comic touch was lent to the entire "Battle of Blunders", the Admiral states, when the Germans, without radar of their own, kept accurate track of the British ships stalking the Bismarck by means of excellent listening devices. The British employed radar for the same purpose. As a result of the tracking, each navy jumped to the conclusion that the other had stolen its technical secrets.

Admiral Gallery reveals that the British might have sent a boarding party aboard the floundering Bismarck but failed to do so. "She was a pushover to board, there was little to lose in trying, and there was a glorious page in naval history to gain, if the attempt succeeded." Had the Bismarck been towed to port, it would have given the greatest boost of the war to British morale.

3 Reasons Why
HADACOL IS PRAISED BY THOUSANDS

HADACOL brings relief to folks troubled with Stomach Distress, Weak, Run-Down Conditions and Nervousness when due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron

Norman Christopher, 2344 Cumberland, Houston, Texas: "After I got out of the Army I was underweight, nervous, couldn't sleep and had a terrible time getting food to agree with me. When I would wake up in the morning I would always be sick at my stomach — I could never eat breakfast—imagine having to wait until noon before eating the first meal of the day. Even then just a few mouthfuls of food would fill me up. At night I couldn't sleep—I would just roll and toss all night. After the third bottle of HADACOL I could tell a difference in my eating and sleeping habits. Now after a year's time of taking HADACOL, I have gained almost 20 pounds, I sleep well—and the most wonderful thing—I can enjoy three full meals a day."

Mrs. John A. Feight, Jr., Rt. 1, Bedford, Pennsylvania: "Anything I ate made my stomach ache and churn all night. . . . My food never seemed to get digested and therefore I would wake frequently in the night with pains. I would be nervous and think over the day's nerve-racking experiences. Every little thing irritated me. I couldn't stand children around me. They made me nervous. I would holler at my two-year-old daughter, Vickie, for nothing at all. Since taking HADACOL all my nausea and nervousness have passed away. All I can say for HADACOL is that it's made me see that this is a beautiful world after all. I'm 20 years old and am a housewife. I really do feel as great as I look on the photograph."

Mrs. Maurice Bellard, P. O. Box 226, Church Point, Louisiana, says about her son, Archie Bellard: "Some friends of mine have been taking HADACOL and found that it had done them a lot of good, and they suggested that I start giving HADACOL to my 16-year-old son Archie Bellard. He has been taking HADACOL for about two months, and since taking it he feels much better. Before he started taking HADACOL he felt weak, and was rundown, and he didn't feel like playing or working. Since he is taking HADACOL he has more energy, and he has a good appetite. I owe the friends, who suggested HADACOL to me, many thanks, but I owe HADACOL many more thanks, and since it has done Archie so much good, I will never be without it again."

CAPITOL - COUNTY
News Letter
BY
ASSEMBLYMAN RALPH R. CLOYED

Reapportionment Bill signed Governor Warren signed into law the bills re-drawing the lines of the State's Congressional and Assembly districts — after listening for hours to people protesting. Kathryn Niehouse and I made the last ditch fight for San Diego County.

William A. Malone, chairman of the San Francisco Democratic Central Committee, and Glen Anderson chairman of the State Central Committee and other State and County leaders asked the Governor to veto the measures. Before the hearing started Attorney General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown the top ranking Democratic official in the State government had asked the Governor for a veto.

Well in advance of the hearing Warren said in the absence of "real and unustified inequities" he would be inclined to sign the legislation, as he considered it essentially a legislative process.

Fallbrook Public Utility districts bills cleared the Senate and have been sent to the Governor's desk. George Yackey, General Manager of the district, said the bill would facilitate district financing with revenue bonds.

California Schools were one of the major concerns of the legislature in Sacramento in the past week and the decision on where and how some $48,000,000 is going to come from to help them over the financial hurdle will take a good portion of this week's calendar. Assemblyman Sherwin, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, came up with one solution of a cigarette tax rider amounting to 3 cents a pack, which would bring in the requested funds. The legislature killed a similar tax last year.

Another bill was introduced to increase the tax on liquor and beer and would bring California's tax up to that in effect in many other states. Its future was in doubt, as it was sent to the Boards and Commissions Committee.

The totally disabled Social welfare bill was given an overwhelming endorsement by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, the vote 16 to 4.

The bill would give California's permanently and totally disabled $75.00 in Federal State and County grants. The disabled applicant must be between 18 and 65 to qualify; he could have $600.00 in personal property, $3,000 in real property; alcoholics and narcotic addicts are not eligible.

Fair Employment practices bill which would have created a commission to study racial problems and economic equality, was defeated by a committee vote of 15 to 3. The bill, commonly known as F.E.P.C., for your information, went down to defeat for the fourth time, each time being sponsored by the Governor, Russell Stowell of San Diego, President of the Constitutional Foundation, appeared in opposition.

Communist teaching with the intent to indoctrinate a pupil with communism or bring about preference for communism in the mind of the pupil, and designed to restrict the teaching of communism in California schools and would make it punishable by dismissal from the job. The bill was debated by the Assembly and although the principals of teaching communism was denounced by all there were those who said this bill would hamstring teachers because the teacher could not know what was indoctrination and objective study. The bill was defeated by a vote of 66 to 10.

You may get better haircuts from barbers, if an Assembly bill gets by the Senate. It would require 1,500 hours of Barber College instead of 1,000 before graduation.

Narcotics to Minors gift or sales becomes a felony if Senate Bill 820 by Kraft is passed in the Assembly.

Newspaper feather bedding bill goes on the table. The purpose of the bill was to stop the practice of which printers reset in type material set in mat form, the type is then discarded and the mat used for casting The International Typographical Union opposed the bill.

John Marken and wife with their two children, Craig and Paul of Escondido were guests of the Assembly and were extended the Courtesy of the Chamber and their names inscribed in the journal of the day's proceedings.

Othe people from San Diego County seen in the halls of the Capitol were Cecil Hardesty, San Diego County Superintendent of Schools. Glen Murdock of La Mesa Schools was successful before the Allocation boards of getting approval of a bid for construction of a school in Fletcher Hills. Dr. Calvin Lauderbach of Chula Vista was equally successful in getting the Castle Park School bid approved.

San Diego County members of the Assembly secured the approval of the Assembly and sent to the Senate a joint resolution memorializing Congress of the United States to enact legislation authorizing the completion of the second barrel of the aqueduct by the Navy.

Adequate Shelter Needed for Healthy Rabbits

By JOHN M. WEAR, Jr.

Construction of hutches for rabbits depends cheifly whether they are to be placed indoors or outside. All-metal type hutch is ideal for indoor use but where rabbits are to be kept outdoors adequate shelter should be provided to protect them from rain, wind, strong draft and extreme heat, by permitting fresh air.

In cold climates the outdoors hutch should have a solid back and ends but wire netting may be used for the front. For further protection during cold weather a detachable panel, a canvas or a burlap curtain may be used to cover one-half of the hutch front.

It is easier to keep the hutch clean, dry and disinfected when ¾-in. galvanized 16-gauge hardware cloth is used for the floor. In the construction of double or triple tier hutches sufficient space should be alowed for inserting a dropping tray under the floor of the upper hutches.

For the small breeds of rabbits (three to six pounds) a hutch 2½ feet deep, 2 feet high and 3 feet long is adequate for one mature do or a doe and her litter.

For the medium weight (eight (to 12 pounds) breeds, a hutch the same depth and height but five feet long and for the giant rabbits, 14 to 16 pounds, 2½ feet deep, 2½ feet high and six feet long.

A nest box should be constructed in a maner which permits thorough cleaning and disinfecting with a minimum of labor. The size of the box for the medium or giant breeds should be approximately 12 inches deep, 12 inches high and 16 inches long.

The closed nest box is preferable for the colder climates and the open top nest box for hot climates. A board across the top at the rear end of the open top box makes a convenient place for the doe to rest when the hutch is being cleaned or when she wants to get away from her litter.

An opening 6x6 inches, or if circular, seven inches in diameter in the upper corner of the side of the box will be high enough from the bottom of the box to prevent the little ones from climbing out too soon.

Covering the edges of the box with metal strips will prevent the doe from gnawing on the box. With minor alterations, a nail keg may be made into an inexpensive yet satisfactory nest box.

The loss of new-born rabbits from freezing can be reduced by furnishing the doe with a well-ventilated nest box. This may be done by placing a box that is large enough to leave a space of three inches between the sides and ends of the boxes. Straw or hay may be packed in the provided space for insulation.

Proper ventilation is necessary to prevent frost from accumulating in the nest box. This may be established by boring two or more one-half inch holes through the center area of the inner box top and through the top of the outer box at the end opposite the entrance opening.

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

Is the State of California too generous for its own good?

Ever since last January when the Governor proposed to add an entirely new kind of relief expenditure to the State Budget—aid to the totally and permanently disabled—the State's lawmakers have tussled with the problem. A decision is expected shortly.

At present, California relief programs cost over a third of a billion dollars annually, nearly $350,000,000. This does not include the cost of unemployment insurance, disability insurance, or old age and survivors' insurance, which comes out of special contributory funds.

With 20 percent of all expenditures for State and local government now going for public assistance, the California State Chamber of Commerce reports "public assistance in California affords a higher standard of living than is earned by the working population of most of the world."

Comments the California Taxpayers' Association: "California's relief program is already the most generous in the Nation." Direct aid, the Chamber and Taxpayers' Association points out, is paid for the needy aged, the needy and the partially self-supporting blind and needy children. Under a forth category, "general home relief," the Taxpayers' Association declares, "no person in need is left without public assistance."

Reviewing the category of aged aid, the State Chamber reports: "Census figures recently reported on persons 65 years of age and over reveal that 30.5 percent of that age group receive old age assistance in California as compared with 21.8 percent in the other States and the District of Columbia. The California percentage is 40 percent higher!

"Being out of line so drastically is reflected in California's tax burden which is heavy in relation to the large competitive States," the Chamber states. By way of comparison, the Chamber reports that at the end of 1950, "California with a population of 10,586,000 was paying $18,014,000 monthly to recipients of aged aid, whereas New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Ohio were paying out for their combined population of 41,987,000 a monthly total of only $20,470,000.

All in all, as things stand now, 494,226 people are receiving State aid of one sort or another. The total is mounting each month.

Commenting on the cost of the Governor's proposed new aid plan for the disabled, the Cali-

Glen Ford, Hollywood film star, on how to stay happily married—"Don't see too much of each other—both husband and wife should have a night out once a week—away from the family."

fornia Taxpayers' Association says, estimates of the cost of this new relief range up to $100,000,000 a year once the program is fully under way. The Chamber of Commerce estimates that over 100,000 persons in California would receive aid under the plan.

These, then are the factors the Legislature must take into account in rendering a decision on more State aid.

If the disabled aid proposal is enacted, California will have nearly 600,000 people on the relief rolls at an annual cost of approximately $450,000,000.

(Held over from last week.)

Assuming (for the sake of speculation only) that a Republican is elected in 1952, what next?

What of Congress?

The answer to that question is aifost as intriguing as the identity of the next President.

When all the tumult and shouting dies down, when the results of the '52 election are in, there is a possibility that the Nation will have a Republican President and Republican House of Representative—but a democratic United States Senate!

Politicians subscribing to this theory say, with merit, that at this stage in proceedings, most advantages are with the Republicans in 1952. The Kefauver hearings, the Fullbright hearings, the ruction over General MacArthur and a number of other factors, the story goes, tend to make the people favor a change in administration.

But for all its popularity (and this is still speculation) the GOP will need a landslide of avalanche proportions to capture the Senate.

Presently there are 50 democrats and 46 Republicans in the Senate. Barring any change due to accident or retirement, the GOP must make a net gain in 1952 of three seats to win. That, the experts say, is far easier said than done.

With 33 Senate contests scheduled, 19 Republicans are up for re-election and 14 Democrats, making it difficult to start. In addition, however, six of the Democratic Senators are from the Deep South, where Republicans stand as much chance as Democrats in Maine, and another is from Rhode Island, a Bourbon stronghold of long standing.

To further complicate matters, each of the 19 Republicans up for re-election, faces a fight.

In fact, the badgered brass of the GOP has it figured that Republicans could defeat Democratic incumbents in just seven States. A bare majority, in other words, will be exceedingly difficult to win for the GOP and a working majority is almost in the nature of wishful thinking on the part of the Grand Old Party.

This is the way, at any rate, that political crystal ball gazers have it doped out: that the Republicans could capture the presidency, the House of Representatives but not the U. S. Senate. It is interesting speculation and certainly is not beyond the realm of possibility. But it still remains speculation in May, 1951, and the elections won't be held until November, 1952.

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT
JAMES DORAIS

Ham and eggs may be the traditional American breakfast, but beef is the Nation's favorite dinner entree. In one form or another, beef accounts for 44 percent of the country's annual meat consumption.

That percentage, however, is due to be sharply reduced, according to many growers and packers. The recent meat price control orders issued by the Office of Price Stabilization may reduce the non-black market price of beef, but, they claim, there inevitably will be much less beef for the consumer to buy.

A brief excursion into the normal practices of the beef business soon supports the logic of that claim.

Ranchers don't just drive their steers to the corner butcher's back door. Ordinarily, when an animal weighs about 700 pounds, the rancher sells him to a "feeder," who fattens him for several weeks—often adding as much as 300 pounds—before reselling him to a slaughterhouse. About 85 percent of all the beef cattle in the country is marketed in that way.

A large Sacramento Valley feeder normally handles some 30,000 steers a year. But he has stopped buying until late Fall. And from all over the country there are reports that feeders are temporily going out of business.

The reason isn't hard to find. The new meat price control orders provide for a series of reductions in the price that packers may pay for live cattle. Any feeder buying cattle now is sure to receive less than he paid for them after he has fattened them! That situation can't change for the feeder until after October 1, the date the last OPS price cut goes into effect.

According to reports from Chicago, the Nation's stockyards capital, many feeders are trying to avoid losses by rushing cattle to the market before prices are cut. As a result, about half the steers now being slaughtered are much lighter in weight than normal. And as feeders are eliminated from the marketing picture entirely, as steers are sold direct from the range to the packer, weights per animal will be still lighter, thus seriously reducing the supply of beef to the consumer.

Other factors are involved, too. There is the very real possibility of a serious drought in the Southwest. There is the likelihood that because veal hasn't been subjected to price controls, a great many more animals than usual will be slaughtered long before they become walking T-bones.

And there is the matter of quality. Grass fed animals, cattlemen say, make poorer beef than grain fattened animals.

Another significant aspect of the situation is that while the OPS orders will stringently police the buying operations of the large, responsible packers, there are no restrictions on the prices that farmers may charge as sellers. Many observers predict that that arrangement insures vigorous black market activity on the part of fly-by-night buyers which the OPS will find virtually impossible to control.

Apparently there is more to the business of getting meat on the table than meets the eyes of the price stabilizers.

(Held over from last week.)

At long last, relief is in sight for the long-suffering California motorist who pungles out 4½¢ a gallon on every gallon of gasoline he buys in a vain attempt to maintain highways that are pounded to pieces under the wheels of commercial vehicles.

Agreeing that the practice of deliberate and consistent overloading trucks far in excess of legal weight limits must be discouraged, responsible truck owners, farmers and shippers appear to have lent their support to legislation now pending in Sacramento which would provide specific, mandatory fines for violations of the present truck weight provisions of the Vehicle Code.

Under current practice, only nominal fines usually are assessed for violations, and as a result, a minority of highway carriers have found it highly profitable to adopt a policy of intentional overloading. The result, according to testimony of the State Divison of Highways, can be measured in terms of millions of dollars in needless highway damage each year.

The proposed fine schedule would require the courts to fine 1c a pound for each pound of overload, plus an additional cent per pound fine for each additional thousand pounds. Thus the worse offenders would be penalized far more stringently than casual accidental offenders. It is a tribute to the trucking industry that this schedule is reported to bear the approval of the California Motor Truck Owners Association, the Teamster's Union and the Proprietary Truck Owners Association of Southern California, as well as the Agricultural Council, representing owners of farm vehicles.'

Another measure now being considered by the Legislature would permit the Highway Patrol to take persons arrested for violation of truck weight regulations directly before a magistrate rather than issuing a citation for a later appearance, as now required. This proposal is primarily aimed at out of-State violators of California weight laws, many of whom habitually ignore citations.

The Senate Interim Committee on Traffic and Motor Vehicle Violations found that about 100,000 citations are now outstanding, most of them in the hands of out-of-State truckers whom the Highway Patrol can only hope to apprehend by sheer accident.

Still another proposal aimed at out-of-State offenders would require such vehicles to pay California truck registration fees when found in violation of the size and weight laws.

Like most kinds of lawbreaking, overloading can best be cured by taking the profit out of it. Motorists, and the great majority of law-abiding truck owners, will be gratified to see that done.

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There's a question as to how long a man can spend billions of other people's money without becoming dizzy. Around Washington it is wondered if William C. Foster, head of ECA which gives billions away under name of Marshall Plan has not reached that point.

C. W. Harder

Foster announces Western European industrial production is 40% more than 1938, export trade up 50%, farm crops up 10% more than 1938. In other words, Europe on statistics, never had it so good. Yet more billions to give away are wanted.

Few days later, Foster announced that European cartels, or monopolies, are big stumbling block to average man being prosperous.

Assailing European trusts that curtail production, fix prices, Foster told a St. Louis audience, "Too many Europeans follow the practice of small production with high unit profits. Instead, management must become imbued with the idea of high production, lowering the costs of production, passing the benefits of lower costs to buyer and worker."

So after giving away billions of American taxes, in free goods, including a half billion in tobacco alone, Foster finds answer that Gen. Douglas MacArthur found without giving away a cent.

Japan has made great recovery stride, despite atom bombings, despite no Marshall Plan gifts. But one of the first things MacArthur administration did was break up four big trusts that had controlled Japan.

That is probably one reason why MacArthur fell into disfavor in Washington where efforts are being made to extend monopolies in America.

England and France probably had other reasons for pressuring MacArthur dismissal, too. They wanted to keep goose laying golden eggs their way.

In this connection Foster either took bureaucratic license with facts or doesn't know what is going on when on first of month he announced Marshall Plan gifts to Britain were suspended as of January 1, 1951.

His $670,000 worth of press agents crossed him up beautifully here. They announced, as reported last week, that England has just been given $5,880,000 worth of copper, $2,500,000 worth of oil. Now it is announced another $600,000 worth of copper has been given them.

Senator John Sparkman's Small Business Committee, probing rubber situation is finding rubber allocation program which is driving out of business all but the very few Rubber Bigs, was issued at a meeting of which no record was made and nobody seems to know who attended, or what they said.

So committee has issued demand more rubber be given small firms until facts are known. Committee will check just announced Marshall Plan gift of $97,000 worth of rubber to French North Africa; $120,000 to Austria. Look for extraordinary facts to develop.

Student Council Makes Traffic Survey

The Student Council of the La Mesa School, in conjunction with the Safety Committee, conducted a traffic count at boulevard intersections used by pupils on their way to and from school. The results of this study will form a basis for further consideration of possible safety measures that can be taken to reduce to a minimum any safety hazards at these crossings.

More New Students Enter

The morning third grade, Mrs. Tait's class, has two new members, Donna Rae Williams and Michael Hughes, recently enrolled at the Vista La Mesa School. The class was sorry to lose Carolyn Kinney, who has transferred from the district.

Local Teacher Serves on County Committee

Mrs. Virginia Cornelius, teacher of grades four and five has been appointed to serve on the County Area Planning Committee for Audio-Visual materials for schools. She will represent the elementary grades for San Diego County. Mrs. Cornelius recently met with school representatives from the Lemon Grove School District when they discussed the purchase of additional films and film strips with the representative of a commercial film company. Also attending the meeting were Mrs. Evelyn Whalen, Mrs. Loy Holmquist, T. Rolland Purves, Clarence Allen, and S. K. Solleder.

Mothers Honored With Art Projects

The sixth graders of Mrs. Hazel Schwalm's class at Vista La Mesa School surprised their mothers on Sunday, Mothers' Day, with beautiful correspondence portfolios, made in class as an art project. The covers were decorated with brilliant finger painting designs, and the linings were colorful, with pockets for letters and stationery.

Kindergarten News

Mrs. Ellen Berdel, afternoon kindergarten teacher, underwent an emergency operation last week at Mercy Hospital. It will be necessary for her to be absent from her school work for several weeks.

Vacations have already begun in the imaginations of these tiny folks. The boys and girls built a train of blocks, and have been buying "tickets" to destinations like Africa and Paris. And all are enjoying the new hop-scotch patterns on the playground here at Vista La Mesa.

The kindergarten is welcoming Paula Maynard, a new-comer, to the afternoon session, and Richard Simonds to the a. m. group.

First Grade News

The boys and girls in the a. m. first grade were thrilled last week to receive a big box from Saipan. It came from Bobby Morgan, a former classmate who is now living with his family in the Far East. Bobby has been collecting shells for the class, large ones and tiny ones. The class has them at present exhibited in the room.

In Bobby's letter he told the class that he wears a bathing suit to class now because the weather is so warm.

The class welcomes back Albert Olsen, who recently went to Cleveland, Ohio. Albert's dad is Al Olsen, Padre pitcher. Albert was able to tell the class many interesting things about his trip to the East.

To Honor Teachers At Picnic Dinner

Arrangements were made for a picnic dinner for the teachers at El Monte Park on Friday evening, May 25 at the regular meeting of the Lemon Grove PTA Executive Board. Mrs. J. G. Durham, assisted by members of the Board, will plan refreshments and entertainment for the evening.

Mrs. B. L. Netzley, legislation chairman, asked all members to continue with correspondence to State assemblymen, urging support of AB 1985, which would provide increased State aid for schools.

Registration for all children entering kindergarten in the Fall will be held in this school district, beginning May 21, was announced by S. K. Solleder. All parents of present eighth grade students are invited to attend the meeting of Helix High School P.T.A. on May 24 at 7:30 at Grossmont High, for the purpose of discussing plans for the coming year. The Board reported that it has invited all candidates for school board to attend the P.T.A. meeting this Thursday evening in the school cafeteria at 7:30.

Attending the meeting were Mmes. T. A. Keeton, president Clyde Hardy, Royce Cannon, Channing Mason, R. C. Taylor, J. G. Durham, B. L. Netzley, John Dail, Bruce Morgan, Rita Von Meedon, Hazel Jensen, Evelyn Whalen, Margaret Darroch and Evelyn Lauritzen; B. H. Davis, Mel Frailey, and Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Solleder.

May Officers for Sixth Grade

The following officers have been elected by Mr. Purves' sixth grade class to serve during the month of May: Winton Glines, president; Jack Parton, vice president; Judy Achilles, secretary; Peggy Moore, room monitor; Willard Rigley, librarian.

Teachers in 26-8 Softball Triumph

By ROGER CONLEE

The teachers routed the students, 26-8, last Friday at the Junior High School ball diamond in the second annual Faculty-Student softball game.

The faculty club took a commanding 5-2 lead in the first frame and then walked away with the game, although the students played aggressively.

About 500 teachers, students, and others watched the game, as the faculty had a field day. They ended with 27 hits for 51 times at bat, an excellent .529 average. The students batted well too, having an over-all average of .333, on 11 hits.

In the first inning, Coach F. J. Egan led off with a home run, the only one for the faculty in the game. Henry Bonilla socked a four-sacker in the seventh frame for the students.

Top hitter for the day was Jimmy Hurst, student first baseman, who had a clean four for four. Coach Egan and Steve Griggs paced the teachers' hitting, each collecting a four for six margin.

GOOD NEWS for HOMEMAKERS by Anne Marshall

CHOICE SPRING VEGETABLES become your families "first choice" when you serve the garden products in special creamy sauces. And grand for vegetable sauces are the condensed soups.

Three fine soups to use this way are cream of mushroom, cream of chicken, and cream of celery. The special flavor of each soup-sauce gives a pleasing richness to almost any cooked vegetable. Especially good vegetable-sauce combinations are asparagus with cream of mushroom soup, green peas with cream of chicken soup. To prepare soup for a sauce, simply stir together 1 can of the condensed soup and ¼ cup milk. Heat well and pour sauce over the cooked vegetable. Then you're on your way to happy eating.

CHICKEN IS FEATURED at many meals by smart homemakers these days. This is one meat that's plentiful — and so well liked. You can feed the whole family from a small amount of chicken when you fix this noodle dish with condensed cream of chicken soup. The soup gives the dish that full-of-chicken flavor.

Easy Chicken 'n' Noodles

2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10¼ oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup
2 cups cooked noodles
½ cup cooked green peas
½ to 1 cup diced cooked chicken

Simmer green pepper in butter in a saucepan until tender. Add soup, noodles, peas and chicken. Gently mix all together. Cook over low heat for about 10 minutes or until heated through. Makes 4 servings.

TRAY TIP: Let a tray work for you when you're serving or clearing away a meal. With a tray you can carry most of the food for the meal in one trip to the table. After you've eaten, you can stack the used dishes on the tray so clearing is done in a jiffy.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Add Color and Spice to Rooms With Unusual Slip Cover Designs

By Ertta Haley

WHETHER YOU'RE an experienced seamstress who can touch any material and turn it into a lovely creation or a beginner with ideas and the desire to learn, you can make slipcovers of unusual beauty and design. A perfectly ordinary room can change its appearance as a woman with a new hat, and you can have a different room twice a year or with every season.

Slipcovers made or purchased from professionals are expensive and thus limit many homes to one set. Made by the woman of the home, there are several sets available because the expense is so small.

Dull rooms can come to life again with brand new, well-designed covers for chairs and sofas, and the cost is limited to material alone. Fortunately there's a wide selection of this available, and many of the materials can be picked up at sales for such reasonable prices that it's plain laziness not to take advantage of the spice they can add to your home.

Even one chair, if it's important to the room can lift the furnishings to a new plane. Then, as time goes by you can gradually remake the room by adding other slipcovers in keeping with the first one, as long as the tempo has been well set.

Fitting is the important thing in making the cover, but this is easily solved. The sewing really doesn't amount to a great deal, and as most of it is straight, and on good materials, this offers no problem.

Slip covers can be as individual as the seamstress herself, and she need not limit herself to patterns. With a change, and simple at that, corner and skirt finishes can change a traditional cover into something apt to bring forth many a compliment through the years.

Vary Skirt Finish To Change Style

The style of almost any easy or lounging chair in the living or bedroom can be varied with its slipcover. Lines may be hidden, lines can be changed with the covering alone, and most of the change can come in the skirt or in the corner treatment.

If you want to buy a pattern for a chair, then buy a simple style with classic box pleats in the skirt add spice to your sofa cover.

since this is the classic skirt finish. This may be used with almost any style of furniture. If you want the easiest style to make, then buy a skirt with a flounce. Use this in informally furnished rooms.

Another good style to buy, for patterns, is the straight skirt with simple pleats at the corners. Then, if you wish, you can make an extra skirt pattern out of tissue paper when you want variety.

For formal rooms, for example, you may finish the skirt with fringe, and this is usually set right on top of a plain skirt. Fringed skirts are at home in Victorian modern or traditional rooms.

Shaped skirts are good in all types of rooms, as long as the shaping harmonizes with the room. Take the scalloped skirt, for instance. The simple round or oval scallops are best in informal settings.

Inverted pleating at the corners of a chair make the piece at home in modern or tailored settings. In traditional rooms you might like to hide ponderous or portruding legs with draped corners on the slipcover.

Should the room be less formal, and you still want to hide or disguise faulty chair legs, use flounced corners. This treatment is especially good for informal rooms, and for those ugly cabriole legs.

Another corner treatment for covers that is good for chairs upholstered all the way to the floor are the corded or lace trimmings.

Vary Sofa Styles To Add Interest

It's surprising what effect you can give an old sofa or studio couch just with smart slipcovering. An overstuffed sofa which for many years has had a floral covering can become a brand new and interesting piece if you will use a lovely shade of plain material. If the draperies are floral, you might cut out flowers from them and applique them to the plain material, on back or arms, depending upon the size of the spray or blossom.

A layer of cotton between the plain material and the applique will help the applique stand out for good effect.

Panelled sofa covers are excellent if your home is modern. The panelled effect can be achieved by quilting over thick cotton lining. This treatment may be used on the back as well as the sides, with seat covers and front left plain.

Tailored sofas can be given a sectional look, too, if you will do them in two kinds of material. Use a plain material on sides and center panel, with floral, striped or geometric material on the two end seats.

Use Part-Time Covers To Keep Them Fresh

Upholstered furniture can be kept bright and attractive looking, as well as decorative if you want to make part-time slipcovers, or just covers for those parts like head and arms which soil most easily.

Think of how easy they are to make, and how quickly they can be whisked in and out of the laundry back to chairs and sofas! You can also save wear and tear on furniture and their own covers if you have these miniature slipcovers.

A plaid chair and sofa for example can have a cover to slip over the back. Make this in plain fabric and use large scallops for finishing it.

Arm and head rest covers for your favorite easy chair will keep it neat and clean. Make these with straight edges, tailored, if it's a plain large chair. These should fit over back, several inches down from the top, and come two or three inches over the arms on each side as well as at the front.

If your chair seats take lots of wear, plan to make covers that tie under the seat with tapes to keep them properly anchored.

Partial covers for ottomans can be made to slip over the top and come down on the sides for two or three inches. Make them snug enough so they don't slip off.

Dress Up Plain Chairs With Colorful Covers

Chairs for bed and dressing rooms can be ruffled and very decorative, but the fabrics for them are usually inexpensive. Old curtains and draperies as well as sheets, tablecloths and dressing table skirts can frequently yield enough material for the chairs if there is enough durable material remaining in them to be worth the sewing.

Floor length skirts for bedroom chairs can cover the legs or rungs of an old dining room or straight-backed living room. The back and seat of the chair can be covered with a plain boxed pattern and the skirt with knife pleated material or flounce.

Plaid for back and seat and a plain fabric for skirt, boxed trimly, is always good for a man's or boy's room. The plain material for the skirt should pick up one of the colors in the plaid.

For a feminine chair, use a ruffled dotted Swiss skirt and a perky overlay of knife pleated trim which may be purchased ready-made. Demure satin bows can be used at the back sides of the chair.

Feminine Suit

This little feminine suit of navy crepe, moderately priced, is designed in New York for all purpose wear. The collarless jacket is scalloped up in front and buttoned into green-piped buttonholes. It's a perfect companion for warm weather when combined with a tailored but lacy hat and a white boutonniere pinned just below the shoulder.

SHORT STORY

Fixation On Father

By Richard H. Wilkinson

MR. Harlow sat bolt upright in his chair. The psychology lecturer was saying: "And in the normal family, when the daughter reaches the age of 12 or 13 it is quite likely that her fixation will shift from her mother to her father. They will become great friends. Often this fixation on father will remain until the daughter transfers her affections to a mate. However, if father does not respond to daughter's fixation, the child will, unconsciously, shift back to mother, who, in many cases has resented the original transfer—"

3-Minute Fiction

Mr. Harlow rose. He made his way down the long aisle, paying no heed to the annoyed glances of other listeners, gained the outside lobby and paused there, dabbing at a moist brow with his handkerchief.

So that was it! he told himself. So that was the cause of his wife's indignation and wrath and resentment. In his mind's eye the pieces of the puzzle that had troubled him for the past month fell into place. He understood now what had happened; he could see it taking place, step by step. Virginia, his only child had attained the age of 13. She was nearing maturity. Gradually, unconsciously, her fixation had transferred from mother to father. The two had become great friends. Mr. Harlow had been tremendously proud and happy.

Not so Mrs. Harlow, Mrs. Harlow was annoyed. She hadn't understood and presently her annoyance changed to resentment against her husband.

. . . Mr. Harlow returned late that night. It was not his habit to return home late, but tonight there was a definite purpose. Mrs. Harlow had retired, and 10 minutes after he entered the house his daughter Virginia came in. Virginia had been to a party.

Seeing a light in the living room, Virginia came to the door. At sight of her father sitting there alone she uttered a little cry of delight and bounced upon his knee, with the full intention of providing him with details concerning her evening's activities. Something about the expression on her parent's face, however, restrained her.

MR. Harlow smiled at her in a manner that bespoke faint embarrassment. He attempted to brush something from his coat but failed. Thus having had her attention attracted to the something, Virginia investigated and found it to be a daub of powder. She looked at it and frowned. Looking further she discovered a long strand of blond hair.

Horror filled her eyes, a hurt look, an expression of awe and wonder and incredulity, gradually giving way to something bordering on accusation and scorn. She drew away.

Abruptly she flung her arms about her father's neck and promised him that no matter what happened she would keep his secret.

"Why, Daddy! Whatever—who—"? Mr. Harlow interrupted, gesturing airily, saying something about an apology, presently lapsing into a lengthy but rather stupid discourse and ending by stating that it would not be wise or necessary to mention the matter to her mother.

Virginia stared. Abruptly she flung her arms about her father's neck and promised him that no matter what happened she would keep his secret. It would be their secret. Poor mother. She must never know. But he must promise—

Yes, yes. Of course he'd promise. It was all very silly anyway. Just one of those regretful things that would never be repeated.

After awhile Virginia rose and left him. Her attitude brought a lump into Mr. Harlow's throat. But when she had gone he sighed in vast relief. Beginning tomorrow, he knew, his daughter's fixation would be transferred back to her mother. Mrs. Harlow would cease to be irritable and resentful. Harmony would reign once more in the household. And sometime, Mr. Harlow told himself, when Virginia was safely married and away, he would explain it all—and hope that she would understand.

Chocolate Shutters

Chocolate brown is most effective when used as an exterior trim color on a house. Brown shutters are attractive with white, pale yellow or pale green.

Tee for Two

Add a mother-in-law story. Niblick, a man inordinately proud of his golf scores, took his mother-in-law with him to the course one day. After depositing her on a bench, he and a chum started for the first tee. There Niblick announced, "I want to make a good, long drive now. My mother-in-law is watching from the bench outside the clubhouse."

"Why, that's almost 300 yards!" his chum cried. "You couldn't possibly hit her from here."

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE —NOT GOOD FOOD

● Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon . . . right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.

CHAMPIONS BOTH

LIKE Richard Pappe and Earl Thompson, you probably have a definite preference for either an Open-Center or a Traction-Center Tire. That's because you know the soil conditions on your farm better than anyone else.

If your judgment and experience tell you that an Open-Center Tire is better, take a good look at the Firestone Champion Open-Center.

It is the only Open-Center Tire with Power-Arc traction bars, tapered and curved to take a deep, full-traction bite. The bars are curved and flared to cup the soil for a better grip and positive cleaning.

If your judgment tells you that a Traction-Center Tire will do a better job, then there's just one tire for you—the patented Firestone Champion Traction-Center. It's the only Traction-Center Tire on the market. It is the stand-by of a million farmers today.

Either of these tires will do a great job for you. They're both Champions.

Fast Guy

Two farmers, sitting by the stove in the village store, were engaging in a little exaggeration feat.

"Naow, I oncet had a nephew," said one, "who was as fast a critter as ever I see. Why he use tew hev people shoot at him, and then outrun the bullet for five miles and get clean away."

"Wal, yew won't think that's so fast when yew hear about my cousin. Why that man could blow out the light and then be undressed by the time the room got dark."

REVENGE

An English lady, self-appointed supervisor of village morals, accused a workman of having reverted to drink because "with her own eyes," she had seen his wheelbarrow standing outside a public house. The accused made no defense, but that evening placed his wheelbarrow outside her door and left it there all night.

Naturally

"Really, Helen," he said when he saw her for the first time in five years, "you've changed so I would hardly have known you."

"That's a little ambiguous," she answered archly. "For better or worse?"

"Why," he said enthusiastically, "you could change only for the better, of course!"

Want-Ad

"Lovely kitten desires position as companion to little girl. Will also do light mouse work."

PEDIGREED HATS

A member of an old Boston family, now 80, still lives on Beacon Hill and carries on the family traditions. Last winter she entertained a guest from the Middle West to whom she presented her small but select circle of friends. Shortly before leaving, the guest remarked. "Emily, your friends are wonderful, but tell me, where do they get their hats?"

"Oh, my dear," The Bostonian said with pained surprise, "we don't get our hats. We have our hats."

Correction

Conversation at a Washington dinner party turned on Postmaster General Donaldson's directive slashing home mail deliveries. From there it drifted to the possibility of Senator Margaret Chase Smith capturing the GOP Presidential nomination in '52. Teased the dinner partner on her left: "Tell us, Margaret, what will your platform be?"

Without thinking, she blurted: "I'm for two mails a day."

To the other guests—only half-hearing what had gone before—that sounded like a mighty off-color remark. "Margaret!" gasped one woman.

The lady Senator hastily corrected: "I meant to say I would favor two deliveries a day"—and everyone howled.

"I didn't come in to buy," replied the customer, "I just came in for laughs."

Teacher—"Oh how noble of him! And what is his business?"

Jimmy—"He's a prize-fighter, ma'am."

Electing School Trustees is an Important Job

Dr. Cecil D. Hardesty, County Superintendent of Schools, has pointed out in an editorial in the Current Educational Newsletter:

"At the heart of our American form of government is the process of electing representatives who act for us in carrying on the functions of a given level of government. Voters in California, except in some of the chartered cities, go to the polls on the third Friday of May each year to elect those persons who will represent them in the management of their public schools. These elected representatives of the people are known variously as school trustees, school board members, or, more formally, members of governing boards of school districts.

"No elected public official has a higher trust than that of a school trustee. School board members serve without pay in almost all instances. Their work is a service to youth—a contribution to the welfare of the community.

Remember to vote tomorrow (Friday) for Edward M. Kinyon and give Lemon Grove a representative on the High School Board.

Somewhere between Palm Ave. and Jamul, the traffic volume drops so sharply that the existing 2-lane Campo Road should be adequate for a number of years. This "break point" probably is at or near Avocado Boulevard.

4. Data presented above suggests that immediate action to 4-lane the section of State Highway 94 between 32nd Street and Avocado Boulevard is necessary. This action should include:

Completion of planned realignment and 4-laning in the vicinity of the new Wabash Freeway.

Widening the existing 36-foot pavement between the Wabash Freeway and Lemon Grove enough to permit establishment of 4 traffic lanes separated by a painted double line, and required widening of the present narrow bridge over Chollas Creek, west of Weaver Street.

Similar widening of the section from Lemon Grove east to Avocado Boulevard, including the improvement of the Palm Ave. intersection for which right of way was acquired when the new Brookside subdivision was approved.

5. It is suggested that the Commission recommend to the State Highway Commission that it undertake and complete at the earliest possible date an improvement program — at least equal to the proposed above—for State Highway 94 between 32nd Street and Avocado Boulevard.

Such a program would be relatively inexpensive, but it would both correct a currently critical situation, and contribute toward attainment of the 4-lane, divided highway which eventually will be required.
